Ken Collins - Results4You, LLC

I have 35 years experience in the construction industry and am widely known for building America's infrastructure through a collaborative effort by people. I have been fortunate over the years to be provided with career opportunities that have allowed me to grow professionally as well as, identify, develop, and build ground up "people first" businesses. While I enjoy sharing life experiences, I also possess a strong desire to be a continual student. This combination of "teach and learn" allows me to connect with a variety of generations within the workforce and provide valuable guidance for forward looking businesses of tomorrow.
